

CONTAINER PORTS AND INTERMODAL RAIL ROUTES

Rickenbacker Global Logistics Park: The Perfect Location to Anchor Your Distribution Center

- Rickenbacker, located in Columbus, Ohio, is centrally positioned to the entire eastern half of the United States, enabling same-day or next-day truck delivery to all population centers in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic, Southeast and Midwest.
- Rickenbacker is accessible by rail, air and truck from all major U.S. container ports and airports worldwide, affording global shippers maximum flexibility in mode, port and trade lane choice.
- Rickenbacker boasts the premier intermodal rail connection to the container terminals at Hampton Roads/Norfolk, Virginia via Norfolk Southern Railroad's Heartland Corridor. Norfolk Southern services provide for on-dock rail connections, allowing for efficient and timely transfer between rail and ship.
- Rickenbacker Parkway is designed and approved for the movement of import and export containers that are loaded to maximum weight capacity. The Loaded-to-Capacity Zone allows gross vehicle weight up to 120,000 lbs. or container payloads over 58,000 lbs. to travel with special permit.
